GOULD ANNEXES STATE BASEBALL TITLE

Coch George Bowhay's Gould Academy Huskies came thru with an 11-1 win over Sheaf High of Eastport to win the Class "M-S" state championship played at Bowdoin College last Saturday. The team was again sparked by the remarkable pitching of Captain Dick Rolfe. He allowed only five hits and struck out 17 batsmen. Bennett, Hamilton, and Mason came through with two hits each for six of Gould's eleven hits.

It was 1 to 1 going into the sixth inning when Gould came through with three runs to salt the game away. In the seventh Gould annexed seven more and the Huskies finished in a breeze as Rolfe fanned the last three men to face him.

This championship climaxes an unusual sports year at Gould with all six of the major sports teams having "top-notch" records. At least ten trophies were added to Gould's rapidly growing collection of awards.

Richard Ireland and Jerrold Davis returned Monday from a four day trip to New Haven. They attended the New England track meet and visited friends and relatives along the way.

SMOKING AND FIRES IN WOODS AGAIN BANNED

Smoking and building fires in the Maine woods was again banned by Governor Payne yesterday after five new woods fires were reported. At that time 10 fires that started Tuesday were still unchecked, and over 20 fires had been reported this week.

The Governor made it plain that no ban was placed on fishing, and urged the cooperation of all sportsmen and lumbermen in making the ban effective. A similar ban was in effect from May 18 to 25.

WESTERN MAINE FIREMEN MEET AT NORTH FRYEBURG

The ninth monthly meeting of the Western Maine Firemen's Association was held at Red Men's Hall in North Fryeburg Monday evening with 115 members and 13 towns represented.

The speaker for the evening was Joseph E. Pike, supervisor of Western Maine's white pine blister project. His subject was the methods of combating blister rust in Virginia as compared to the methods used in Maine. He spoke also of fire control methods and dangers in both of these sections of the country, all in all a very interesting and educational discussion.

For the firemen who are interested in the Cumberland County Firemen's Association affairs, their next meeting will be held on September 15 at Falmouth with a public minstrel show at 8:15, admission 60¢ per person with a good time guaranteed to all.

Movies were shown by Gustav Helm entitled "The War for Russia," depicting aspects of warfare new to us and forcefully dramatizing the horror of war.

An excellent lunch was served and the meeting adjourned at 11:15 p.m. A big turn-out of at least 150 is hoped for at Fryeburg on July 19.

BAILEY - JUDKINS

A very pretty wedding took place at the Upton Congregational Church Sunday, June 12, at 2 p.m. when Miss Ruth Elaine Judkins, youngest daughter of Mr and Mrs C. A. Judkins of Upton, was united in marriage to Edgar M. Bailey, Jr., son of Mr and Mrs E. Merle Bailey of Bangor, by Rev. Walter A. Towle of New Haven, Conn., brother-in-law of the groom.

Miss Florence Pike of Waterford played the wedding march and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Walter Towle, sister of the groom. The double ring service was used. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride wore a full length white satin gown with a sweetheart neckline, caught at the sides by seed hearts, long sleeves and train, and a lace veil. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and roses. The trainbearers were nephews of the bride, Fred Judkins II and Robert Judkins.

The maid of honor was Miss Barbara Crockett of Portland. She was attired in lime green broadened taffeta and white lace mitts. She carried an old fashioned bouquet of wild roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Roberta Hendrick of Hiram and Miss Carol Battis of Abington, Mass. They were attired in the same style dress and same material as the maid of honor.

The best man was Harry Bickford of Augusta. The ushers were Roger C. Beedy of Dexter, and Kendrick Judkins of Upton, brother of the bride.

The ringbearer was Edward Bernier, nephew of the bride. The flower girls were Miss Susan Abbott of East Sumner, and Miss Juanita Bernier of Upton, niece of the bride.

A reception at the Grange Hall followed the wedding ceremony. Refreshments were served by the Ladies Ruth Bridges, Barbara Judkins and Deborah Durivage, assisted by Fred Judkins and Albert Judkins, brothers of the bride, and several other friends.

The guest book was in charge of Mrs. Gloria Bruce, sister of the groom.

The gift book was in charge of Mrs. Lillian Abbott, sister of the bride.

The honeymoon will be spent in Connecticut and New York. The bride's traveling ensemble was a navy blue suit, short awing back jacket with navy and white accessories.

Both the bride and groom graduated from Gould Academy in 1948 and both have attended the University of Maine for the past year. They will work in Presque Isle this summer and plan to return to the U of M in September.

Mrs. Rena Foster is at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Hall, for the summer.

NATIONAL TRAINING LAB HERE THIRD YEAR

For the third successive year the National Training Laboratory in Group Development has accepted the hospitality of Gould Academy for its summer meeting place.

One Sunday, June 18, one hundred and eleven delegates will be registered for the Laboratory. Delegates will be present from England, Canada, the Canal Zone, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico. During the training period, thirty-seven states and the District of Columbia will be represented by the delegates.

During the week preceding the opening of the Laboratory, approximately forty members of the training staff met at Gould Academy to make plans for the following three weeks' activities. For the most part, the training staff is made up of faculty members from the eleven universities cooperating with the National Education Association (Washington, D. C.) and the Research Center for Group Dynamics (University of Michigan) who are sponsoring the Laboratory.

The National Training Laboratory in Group Development offers training and practice in the skills of helping people work and learn together in committee meetings, personnel training programs, large conferences, classrooms, and community organizations.

Because of the importance of co-operative group action, the Laboratory attracts individuals who are leaders in business and industry, organized labor, social welfare, education, and a variety of community programs.

Wilbur Myers, Bursar of Gould Academy, is serving as the business agent of the Laboratory and Miss Verna Swift, the Academy's commercial teacher is supervising the Laboratory's clerical staff. Organizations in Bethel that may wish to invite members of the National Training Laboratory's staff or delegates to participate on their programs can do so by contacting Mr. Myers.

BEAULAC - O'BRIEN

Saint Catherine's Church in Norway the scene of a lovely wedding Saturday morning, June 11, when Miss Patricia O'Brien, R. N., of Bethel, became the bride of Bernard Louis Beaulac of Berlin, N. H. The double ring service was performed by the pastor, Rev. J. Francis Brady, and the bride was given in marriage by her father, Patrick O'Brien. Traditional music was rendered by the church organist, Mrs. Paul Whitten, and the solos were by Mrs. Maurice Dullea. The appointments at the church were in charge of Bernard McLaughlin of Norway.

Miss Jeannette Gosselin of Berlin attended the bride as maid of honor and two little cousins of the bride, Carol Ann Keoskie of Bethel and Carol Ann Laliberti of Nashua, N. H., were trainbearers.

Leonard Beaulac served his brother as best man and the ushers were Elmer and Robert Beaulac of Berlin, William O'Brien and Lee Carver of Bethel.

The bride was gowned in white marquisette with an all lace fitted bodice, her fingertip veil fell from a heart shaped coronet. Her train was full length and she carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses.

Miss Gosselin, gowned in blue with matching head dress, carried a bouquet of tallman roses and carnations.

The trainbearers wore identical full length gowns of yellow and pink with matching headresses.

Following the ceremony at Norway, a reception was tendered the couple at the home of the bride in Bethel. Later the couple left for a two week trip through Canada, the bride travelling in a grey suit with navy and white accessories. Her corsage was of gardenias.

Mrs. Geraldine Laliberti had charge of the gifts and the bride's book was handled by Mrs. Keoskie.

SCHOOL SURVEY COMM. REVIEWS BUILDINGS

The Bethel School Survey Committee met Monday to study the conditions of the school buildings in Bethel. Each building was rated separately on twenty-three items such as ground, water, heat, lights, toilets, etc. Most items were rated either satisfactory or fair in each building. The exceptions were as follows: All rural buildings received a rating of very poor for their dirt toilets, and a poor for their lights. The West Bethel school was given a border-line rating on heat, and the South Bethel school a non-existent rating on water, the school having no running water. The Village Grammar building received an inadequate rating on school grounds and a poor on window shades. Such items as teachers' room and auditorium, of course, were non-existent in the village schools. Also, many of the rooms showed a definite need of new interior decorating.

There was some discussion of tuition pupils causing some of the crowded conditions. This brought out a point which is not generally known, namely: pupils from unorganized towns (Albany and Mason) must be admitted, because—quoting from Maine School Law—"Elementary school privileges may be provided by the Commissioner by establishing and maintaining such elementary schools as may seem advisable and by sending such children to elementary schools anywhere within the state as tuition pupils as he may deem expedient. All children so sent — shall be admitted by the school authorities — and they shall receive the same privileges and benefits as children residing in the municipalities to which they are sent. —"

It must be noted that about two-thirds of Bethel's tuition pupils come from Albany and Mason.

The committee hopes to have Mr. McMonagle, Director of Schools in Unorganized Territories, present at their July 14th meeting.

WEST GREENWOOD FOREST FIRE CALLS LARGE CREW

A fire on cut-over land of Paul Creteau in West Greenwood called the Bethel fire department, also a large number of men, with privately owned, town and State equipment Wednesday afternoon. The fire, which was estimated to cover up to 100 acres, was reported under control before dark, after fire lances had been made by two bulldozers. The fire was evidently started by a careless fisherman.

The Bethel department was again called this Thursday forenoon.

Lesson from Britain

Hard times and doing without—that's still the order of life in Britain. "Austerity" is the official name for it. True, a little suffering is not harmful to anyone. But as a political system or way of life, British "austerity" is going to continue feeding a bit of a drain on the world's resources, while you can spare it with the private management and freedom of enterprise to know in America. Britain, in effect, is telling America what not to do.

Fact of Life

But at the moment, the British are in a helping position to understand the fact that needs more and more to be known in America. That fact is that, in the world's economy, higher prices—economic in our country have known for a long time that this is true, yet the popular view of it is that the basic cost of living is not going to rise, and that, after years, without ever raising prices at all. The British know better.

It seems that Sir Stafford Cripps, who is in charge of money matters in England, is right now urging British workers (even they who own industry and run the government) to work harder without higher wages. If the British do this, the reasoning goes, there will be more to export to America. Then, Britain will have more dollars with which to buy the things her people need. Shrewd enough!

Another Round?

You see, the British are driving to get into as much of the American market as possible. Sir Stafford recognizes that if British workers should demand increases in wages, prices of British goods would make it impossible to compete successfully on the American market. In other words, the British (even the labor government) know that increases in wages do mean higher prices.

Is Sir Stafford counting on prices going up in America? Well, at least he is laying plans to compete with American manufacturers—and another round of wage increases over here would do much to help him, according to his own formula. Yes, indeed. Another round of wage boosts would send up prices so high that Sir Stafford would have little trouble in getting rid of everything British sells, from pottery to Austin motor cars.

Forced Prices

Foreign trade is good for our nation, just like it is good for the British. It's a two way street. If we fail to get into the competition ourselves, then our goods will stop moving as fast as we know our production lines can move them.

This lesson Britain is teaching us works at home, too. The one thing we want to do is to keep production going, for we know that our people want jobs and have the capacity to produce. But if we are going to keep facing prices upward, we may one day realize that depression is here just because we have done that very thing. We can have nothing but false prosperity that breeds depression, if we force prices too high.

Author of
"HOW TO WIN FRIENDS AND INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

DR. SAMUEL SCHECTER, New York City, gave me an interesting slant the other day, from the doctor's point of view. He says that in the practice of medicine it is important that the doctor be a good listener, letting the patient talk about himself. Aside from informing the doctor why he has been sent for, and going into the details of his ailment, it is wise to let the patient revert back to his early days, even to his childhood, for often the crux of his trouble can be traced far back.

"Many doctors," says Dr. Schecter, "and I am one of them, believe that in some instances the actual treatment of a patient starts when the patient begins to tell his troubles to his doctor. It is not always an ache or a pain that has brought him to the patient's side. It may be an economic factor, a social problem, or some emotional upset, and doctors cannot draw a definite line of demarcation between any one of these, as one usually leads to another."

"But one thing we do know, the patient very often begins to feel better immediately. Why? Because he went to someone in whom he had confidence, someone whom he liked, someone whom he trusted, and who listened to him, gave him the opportunity to get an irksome problem off his mind."

In line with what Dr. Schecter has said, another doctor told me of a recent visit to a woman who had been alarmed by symptoms described in the publicity given to cancer. She had been worrying for some time, had lost her appetite, and lost weight, but got no satisfaction when trying to get an examination appointment. The date was set far ahead.

When this doctor heard her tell her symptoms, all he had to do was to assure her that she had no cause for worry. She had been troubled for a long period of time, several years, more or less. If what she feared were true, he said, the trouble would have come to a head long ago.

Since then, she says, she has regained her appetite, picked up weight, forgotten about headaches, and has gone after the true ailment and conquered it.

THIS WEEK IN Washington

THIS PAST WEEK in congress has been both senate and house marching two ways, the senate talking about economy and actually shaving about a billion dollars off the defense bill, with the house, in seeming contradiction, whooping through a veterans' bonus bill which will cost nobody-knows-how-many billions and also a new post-office pork-barrel bill which appropriated $40,000,000 to buy sites and prepare structures for every congressional district in the country. The senate passed a similar bill back on March 18 and presumably more funds will be forthcoming later for any actual construction work.

Whether the soldier bonus bill which includes all veterans of both World War I and II will now get on the senate calendar at this late date is conjectural.

Insofar as the peace and other foreign program measures are concerned, the first thing on the calendar is the passage of the extension of the reciprocal trade agreements which expire on June 30. In the last congress, it will be remembered, with the backing of both Governor Dewey of New York and Governor Warren of California, the 80th congress refused the usual three-year extension and made the agreements good only until the June date this year.

This year, however, the agreements have been blue-printed as an indispensable part of the Marshall plan. This question of tariffs has been under constant attack since 1934 when, under the pressure of the then secretary of state Cordell Hull and President Roosevelt, the first reciprocal trade agreements were enacted. They have been fought as "New Deal" ever since despite the fact that as far back as 1904, a Republican president, McKinley, said that isolationism was dead and the way to "peace and prosperity was through reciprocity treaties."

President Truman is now insisting that his congressional leaders also consider his "point four" program in the must legislation for this congress. The legislation has been drafted, and proposes a coordinated plan for the United States and the United Nations to develop the resources, industries and standards of living of that large part of the world where "there are backward" areas and sub-standard living.

The first part of the program deals with policy, provisions for setting up the machinery and providing technical assistance to those backward countries which can now use it. It likely will operate under the state department, although eventually it may require a separate agency.

The second part of the program is designed to employ private enterprise and private risk capital and to this end some guarantees are being written into the legislation against depreciation of currencies and expropriation of industries. The United States is expected to contribute about $60,000,000 the first year. Under related programs, this country already is committed to about $20,000,000 of this amount.

Other industrial countries, such as England and France, are scheduled to put in about $18,000,000.

In case an early adjustment prevents passage of the legislation, there is stop-gap machinery already set up for starting the point-four program in the Smith-Mundt bill known as the U. S. International and Educational Exchange Act of 1948. It has in it authorization for technical assistance even though it was labeled the "Voice of America" program when it went through congress.

Other legislation involved in our economic program as it affects our foreign policy include the International Wheat Agreement and U. S. membership in the International Trade Organization. The Wheat Treaty, which died in the 80th congress, is up again. The ITO faces difficult sledding. It is proposed, according to its sponsors, to prevent economic warfare and establish a code of fair dealing in foreign trade. It is set up to tackle such problems as cartels, surpluses, full employment and the mass of customs regulations and formalities which discourage free trade. ITO is backed by the committee for Economic Development, various women's and church groups and trade unions. Its charter, however, contains points which according to the United States chamber of commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers, would prevent effective usefulness.

Opponents of the plan to place the entire authority over CCO in the hands of the secretary of agriculture won a victory in the senate, when the conference report on the measure came back to the senate. The house had insisted that members of the CCO should be named by the secretary of agriculture and serve at his discretion.

OFFENSIVE VS. DEFENSIVE

EVEN ROCKS, and oceans, and continents change with the ages; but there is one thing which will never change within foreseeable time, and that is the insatiable lust for power over fellow humans which seems to be born in some of us. Today's most glaring illustration of this human frailty is the unalterable determination of a small group of Asiatics—the Russian Politburo—to usurp control of the world.

Most of us like to believe that by meeting and talking with these people or their representatives, we can persuade them that our point of view is preferable to theirs. Even Roosevelt and Churchill dreamed such rosy dreams. But while we may check some of their moves by counter-moves, we will never dislodge them from their purpose.

If we grant this conclusion, then there is for us only one sound defense, and that is—offense. We must take a leaf from the Politburo's own bible and make conquest of the world by what we know as "democracy" our determined and undeviating purpose.

Today we are fighting to hold back the Asiatics from those parts of the world which they have not as yet taken over. If we are going to survive we can't always remain on the defensive—we must make our purpose the freeing of those nations and peoples which are susceptible to revolution and are without any doubt passionately desirous of digging themselves out from under the iron rule of their present police governments.

We don't have to go to war in order to "take the offensive." We would have to support morally and financially those persons, and groups, who are willing to risk their lives to save their countries from the horrors of the police state. The Bolshevik government is doing just exactly this from the other angle—and it works! Why shouldn't we counter with this same successful method?

Our present method is failing—as witness the ever-growing numbers of the earth's people succumbing to the Red "offensive." We wouldn't even have to announce our change of tactics: They would be recognized soon enough and the repercussions might be tremendous in scope. At least, it could hardly worsen our present steadily deteriorating position.

Wars are seldom won by defensive tactics alone.

Say you saw it in the CITIZEN.

Jesus Rises from the Dead.

Lesson for June 19: Mark 16:2-7; John 21:3-4, 7-12.

Memory Selection: 1 Corin. 15:57.

Matthew writes that the women who hastened to the tomb in the early dawn were Mary Magdalene and the "other Mary." The evidence of two stupendous miracles greeted their wondering eyes. They were the great earthquake that rolled back the heavy stone that closed the sepulchre, and the resurrection of the Lord. They were astonished, but courage remained to enter the tomb. A young man clothed in white sitting within told the amazed women that Christ had risen, and bade them go and tell the disciples.

Some time after the first resurrection appearances, the disciples seemingly suffered reaction — they were confused and knew not what to do. Five of them returned for a time to their old life as fishermen on the Sea of Galilee. When they had toiled all night and caught nothing, a stranger appeared on the shore and bade them cast their net on the right side of the ship. They obeyed and made a great catch. John said to Peter: "It is the Lord." The impetuous Peter girt his fisherman's coat about him, leaped into the sea and made his way to the shore. The meal on the shore, and the three-fold questioning of Peter by the Lord are familiar to the reader.

The resurrection completed and crowned the crucifixion. In death, Jesus abolished death and gave us an assurance that we have a living Christ, through whom we may enter by faith into an eternal life of righteousness.

"Six months!" cried the customer. "Why, the whole world was created in six days."

STABILIZED OPERATIONS ARE NOTED AT RUMFORD MUOCC OFFICE

Industrial employment in the Rumford area during the month of May was on a more stable basis than it has been for many months, according to a monthly analysis for May made by Ernest F. Lever, Jr., Manager of the Rumford office of the Maine Unemployment Compensation Commission.

There was considerable demand made on the labor market by lumbering operations throughout the area and resulted in a substantial increase in job referrals and job placements during the month. Job referrals jumped from 168 in April to 260 in May and placements in jobs from 124 to 140.

New applications for work and active applications for work on file both showed a decrease due to more stabilized operations in the various industrial plants. Seasonal operations of various kinds including construction work and summer camps also contributed to the demands upon the labor market during the month.

Agricultural activities were heavy with two farm placement representatives being assigned to the Rumford office on a temporary basis. Recruitment for the Junior Farm Volunteers, made up of boys between 14 and 18 years, who live on farms and the day-hill groups, made up of boys and girls of all ages who are transported from their homes to the fields and back each workable day, is being carried on in preparation for the coming harvest of crops. The day-hill groups will be mostly engaged in the picking of beans while the Junior Farm Volunteers will drive tractors, trucks, operate milking machines and other farm equipment and do general farm work.

VA CUTTING SERVICE

Effective June 11, the Veterans Administration will discontinue operation of itinerant (part-time) offices at 26 points in Maine, leaving Contact service available to Maine veterans and their dependents only at full-time VA installations in Togus, Portland, Sanford, Lewiston, Bangor, and Houlton, M. L. Stoddard, manager of the VA Center, Togus, has announced.

Stoddard said that the discontinuance is in compliance with a directive from Washington headquarters of the VA caused by budgetary limitations for the fiscal year starting July 1, 1949.

The Contact Representative is the VA's man who provides general information and assistance to veterans and their dependents in filing and developing any and all claims for veterans' benefits.

Stoddard said that with fewer Contact Representatives on duty in Maine, their travel would necessarily be limited to occasional visits to institutionalized veterans, and in emergencies, others unable to get to a VA installation.

HIGHWAY CENTER STRIPES CHECK HEAD-ON SMASHES

Head-on collisions, the deadliest and most gruesome of all traffic accidents are averted many times a day by a simple line of paint on a highway pavement, Charles M. Upham, engineer-director of the American Road Builders' Association, points out in discussing safety measures in connection with the opening of the 1949 touring season. He stressed the psychological effect of the center stripe in saving thousands of lives by keeping motorists in their proper lane.

"Separating traffic streams removes one of the greatest hazards of the road," Mr. Upham continued. "The center median or stripe is the best method, but where it cannot be provided, as on two-lane highways, the painted or inset center stripe offers a valuable substitute which all states are now using on their heavily travelled roads."

Experts of the Public Roads Administration estimate that one-third of America's surfaced highways are now center striped. Mr. Upham cited. The cost of striping and restriping this 100,000 miles of highway each year is estimated at $2,800,000 or an average cost per mile of $28.00, according to PRA.

Studies by ARBA based on these estimates show that in spite of all efforts to secure uniformity, center striping is still widely diversified. Some states use solid lines, others broken lines. Widths vary, as do colors, with white and yellow predominating. One state is using a built-in black center line on new concrete pavements. This is done by working in black iron oxide before the pavement sets. A slightly raised separation obtained by concrete slats or bars is being tried out in other states at special points such as curves, intersections where prohibition of passing and left turn is especially important. However, this offers disadvantages in snow removal.

The high cost of painting the center stripe is causing considerable experimentation by state highway departments, the study shows. Several states have developed motor driven striping equipment of special design in an effort to cut costs. Tests are also being made with different types of paints. "Effective, however, is still the prime consideration, despite the expense," Mr. Upham commented.

"Wherever he may be this summer, the tourist cannot mistake the meaning and purpose of the center stripe. If all motorists will regard this simple warning, we will go far toward reducing the annual death rate of 32,000 deplored by President Truman in his recent safety conference in Washington."

PIGGY BACK

by DeWitt Emory

(EDITOR'S NOTE: DeWitt Emory is president of the National Small Business Men's Association.) I wonder how long it's going to be before the young folks—under forty, that is—wake up to what's being done to them by the promoters of a welfare state.

It's easy to understand how someone fifty-five or sixty, who has worked thirty-five or more years without getting any place in particular and without having accumulated very much of this world's goods, will listen to and vote for any kind of a scheme, crackpot and otherwise, which promises security provided by the government. What if he has to give up some of his freedom, his opportunity is pretty much shot anyway.

As I say, that's easy to understand, but how any young person with all or most of his or her productive years ahead could be in favor of anything even remotely connected with a welfare state, could even for a moment consider trading freedom and opportunity for a promise of security, is absolutely beyond my comprehension. It's these young folks who are going to have to carry the whole works by being forced to pay higher and higher and then still higher taxes.

Every year a larger percentage of our population is made up of men and women over sixty. Just since 1900 life expectancy in this country has increased from forty-nine to sixty-seven years and is still increasing.

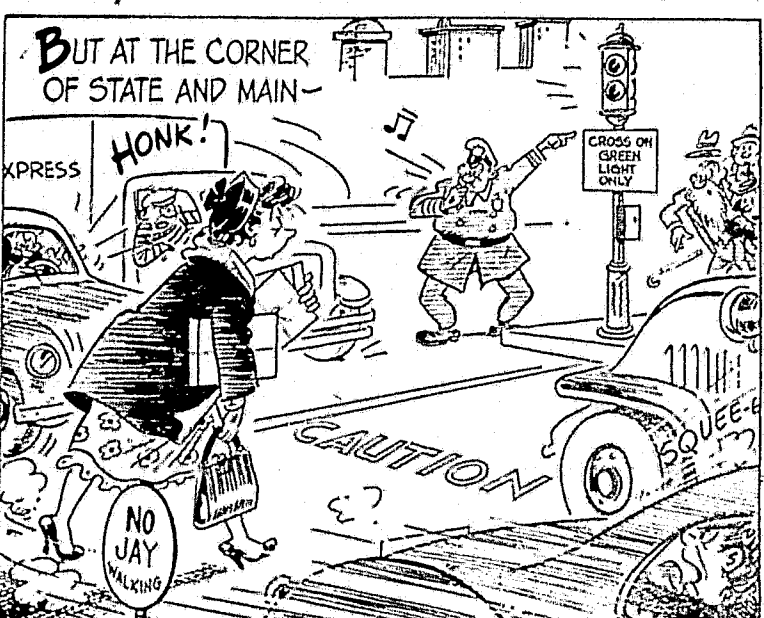

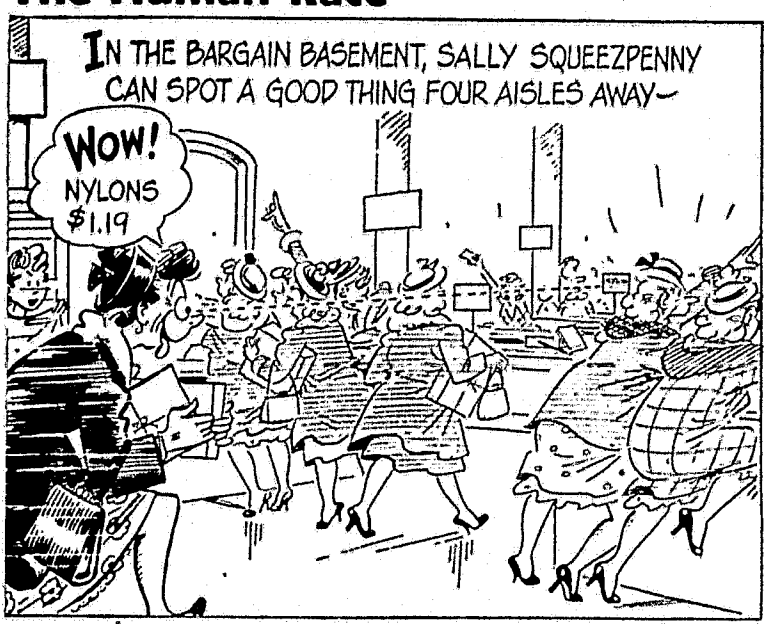

If President Truman's proposal to broaden the base of social security and increase benefit payments goes through, and on top of that he gets the compulsory health insurance and socialized medicine he's asking for, every employed young person in the country will have to carry one of these oldsters "piggy back" for the rest of his life.

The government can't spend any money for old age benefits or anything else which it doesn't take out of the pockets of the taxpayers, out of your pocket, out of my pocket and out of the pockets of everyone else who earns anything or buys anything.

Some of you may feel that my illustration of each employed young person carrying a pensioner on his shoulders is overdrawn, is an over simplification; maybe it is, but on the average that's about the way it would work out. The young chap in the low income group would probably only have to carry one-tenth of the cost of supporting a pensioner, but as he progressed, as his income increased, his share of the carrying charge would also increase. Then later, if he were fortunate enough, or unfortunate enough, depending on your point of view, to get into the upper income bracket, his share of the carrying charge could very easily make him "low man on a totem pole" made up of ten or more pensioners.

I'm not in any sense advocating that these old people be abandoned. What I'm trying to get across is that providing security for each individual citizen is not a proper function of the Federal Government. This sort of thing has been attempted time and time again by other governments in other countries and each time the government failed and the country went bankrupt. The current attempt being made in England is far from successful and would have been a flat failure long ago except for the billions of dollars of taxpayers' money—your dollars and my dollars—which the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations have given to the English government.

Take the so-called social security we now have in this country—old age pensions and survivors' benefits. All this amounts to is that these people have a mortgage on taxes to be collected at some future date from your children, your grandchildren, your great-grandchildren and so on. The only security that's worth a continental is what you provide for yourself. No one realizes more than I do that this is far too big a subject to be covered in one short column and I probably shouldn't have undertaken it. On the other hand, it is tremendously important, and if I have caused some of you to really think about this question, that is definitely all to the good. If those of you who want more information will write to the editor of your paper, he'll forward your letter to me and I'll be glad to answer your questions.

Diarist Vividly Describes 1852 Cross-Country Journey

This course was taken as they declare to protect the American passenger from robbery as there was quite a number of them obtained lodgings under his roof and whom they believed would be robbed if not murdered before morning. Domingo is a bad looking fellow and one would judge from his appearance he was just the man to be guilty of almost any dark deed. They say he has with the assistance of the natives robbed many Californians to the amount of some $20,000. A large portion of our passengers have packed off for del Sud this morning, fearing they may be in personal danger should there be another outbreak tonight. Yet I do not fear any thing personally to cause me to leave. As yet we have got no news of the SS Lewis, and this being a very healthy place with a fine breeze from the Lake while on the other hand Del Sud is the reverse being very warm, rounded by high-hills and no refreshing breezes. Hence we have concluded to stay until we know something about when we are likely to leave the Isthmus. This morning I have seen a Prickly Pear some 10 feet high and it is an object of great curiosity compared to those I have seen in the States.

Wednesday, May 28.

Last night had a quiet slumber not being disturbed by any bandit. Last eve there arrived in this place some 25 Government troops to arrest the individuals engaged in the riot Monday night. They were arrested and bound over by the Alcald for trial tomorrow before the Alcald at Revers—a place about 9 miles from here. They were started off on mules surrounded by the guards on either side, very different this from the way we do business in Maine.

No News from the SS Lewis yet—how long we shall remain here we cannot tell. Two of us have hired a Hotel and a Native Cook, and commenced to keep house. We pay $5 per day rent. We have hired a cook at $1 per day. We have in our Company Messrs. Bowls, Towler, Jacobs, Newman and myself with Mrs. Bowls, Fowler, Baum, Griggs & McKennon with two children, one belonging to Mrs. Fowler & Mrs. McKennon, making 12 in all, and we think we are saving some $1-per day each.

Thursday, May 27. No account of the SS Lewis as yet and much distress & sickness is visible among the passengers. Today the remainder of our passengers arrived from San Juan. Also their baggage which was left behind. Much baggage has been lost & much injured. Many are sick. Some with fevers and some with diarrhea—and among the latter I reckon myself, though I have not had a severe attack, yet sufficient to make me feel disagreeable.

We learn from Revers today that the persons arrested by the police, who were engaged in the riot Monday night, have been sentenced as follows viz, the one who set fire to the Ranch to 50 yrs. imprisonment & the other two to 3 yrs. each. We have had quiet times since Monday night and every thing appears as though we were safe in our present location. Last evening we figured up our expenses & find our board will not exceed $1 per day each which is a saving of $1.50 per day to each individual, a sum worth saving—to all.

½ pound blue cheese
Mix together meat, egg, salt and pepper. Form into 12 patties. Crumble the cheese and mix with mustard, salad dressing and Worcestershire sauce. Place this mixture on six of the patties and cover with remaining patties. Press edges of meat together, enclosing the cheese mixture. Broil on each side 6-8 minutes or until done.

Silvered, toasted almonds add elegance to a cream of chicken soup. Top baked apples with whipped cream or ice cream if you want to glamorize this simple and homey dessert.

Cranberry sauce is an old standby with roast pork or pork chops, but you can make the sauce more interesting if you add some washed seedless raisins to the sauce during cooking.

Fry apple rings in butter, brown sugar and cinnamon and pair them with crusty-baked spareribs for a duck that's really flavormore.

If you want to add a bit of extra nice flavor to that steak about to be broiled mix together salt, pepper and a bit of marjoram. Rub this into the steak on both sides.

A thin slice of ham, spread with softened cream cheese, mixed with finely chopped chives, served on a paper thin slice of rye bread makes a delicious appetizer.

Nobody's Business

As we all know, the advantages of a small town are many. A goodly proportion of our home town people live here because they want to. They like country folks, beautiful scenery, independent working conditions, small town friendliness, sincere neighbors in times of need. These admirable features are to be found in nearly every community and we all know that they abound here.

But why do we not come closer to perfection, Bethel is not Utopia, but then what place is. With the exercise of a little common sense much improvement might result. It is much easier for numerous busybodies (men or women) to take their text for a day's or a week's gossip from some half-truth which lends itself to their suppositions than it would be for them to broadcast any constructive propaganda.

All too often we have seen the needless suffering and humiliation which results from the cruel reaching of some succulent suspicion. It is indeed a reflection upon the integrity of these talebearers when we weigh the statements which are distributed as the honest truth, and accepted as such all too often and passed along with added opinions.

There is nothing new in this quirk of human nature. As a poet wrote long ago:

This world would better be, no doubt,

And our mistakes in life but few, If we knew half as much about Our business as our neighbors do.

To quote further: The devil made the small town; and: There isn't much to see in a small town, but what you hear makes up for it.

Why not let it become a rule to question the accuracy and the source of information when you are expected to believe a story which can only tear down the good reputation of any person. Nothing is more discouraging to the gleeful broadcaster of juicy rumors than to refuse to accept their offerings as the truth.

Maine veterans who have questions concerning their subsistence or compensation checks should address their letters to the Veterans Administration and not to the U. S. Treasury Disbursing office, M. L. Stoddard, manager of the VA Center at Togus said recently.

Even though the address of the Treasury Disbursing office is on the envelopes containing the checks, Stoddard explained that the disbursing office is charged only with the physical writing and mailing of the checks, while the VA is responsible for the authorization of the checks.
